Mathematical, Computational and Systems Biology at the University of California, Irvine

A revolution is underway in the biological sciences. UC Irvine, an NIH-designated National Center for Systems Biology, has developed an exciting new curriculum for Ph.D. and M.S. training at the interface between biology, mathematics, physical sciences, computer science, and engineering.

For more information, or to apply, visit us at: http://mcsb.uci.edu or email: mcsb@uci.edu

The MCSB program is supported by the: